

I'm not a bot

Cookie Privacy Preferences We utilize essential cookies to ensure our website operates effectively and remains secure. Additionally, we'd like to request your permission to use optional cookies. These are intended to enhance your browsing experience by offering personalized content, displaying advertisements that are relevant to you, and helping us to further refine our website. Choose "Accept all cookies" to agree to the use of both essential and optional cookies. Alternatively, select "Let me see" to customize your preferences. Privacy Preference Centre Our website utilizes cookies to enhance your browsing experience and to present you with content tailored to your preferences on this device and browser. Below, you will find detailed information about the function of cookies, enabling you to make informed choices about which cookies you wish to accept. Please note that disabling certain cookies might impact your user experience on our site. It's important to remember that cookie preferences need to be set individually for each device and browser you use. Clearing your browser's cache may also remove your cookie settings. You have the freedom to modify your cookie preferences at any point in the future. For a comprehensive understanding of our use of cookies, please refer to our complete cookies policy. We specialise in a range of funeral stationery, including memory boards, orders of service, announcement cards, and thank you cards. Simply select your required product, choose your desired quantity, paper size and weight where applicable, then upload your artwork and leave the rest to us. All our products are printed on luxurious high-quality paper or card, ensuring your funeral stationery looks professional and will last through the ceremony and beyond as a thoughtful keepsake for your loved one. Why should I use Print-Print for funeral printing? With years of design and print experience, we offer unrivalled expertise and a huge variety of downloaded, customisable templates to suit all needs. A range of size options are available. Memory Boards Printed on thick card or lightweight foamex board we offer a choice of A1, A2, A3, or A4 designs. The A4 and A3 sizes are in a Strut Card format, this means they have a collapsible folding stand at the back, perfect for standing on aloft the coffin or on a table within the funeral setting. Our A2 and A1 memory boards are mounted posters, these are usually used at the entrance of the service venue to offer a visual reminder of the person who has passed. Order of Service Booklets Printed on 160gsm Silk material with an optional cover upgrade to 250gsm, we offer a choice of a 4, 8, 12, or 16 page booklet, with more pages available if you need them. Our in-house team has carefully created a range of beautiful free funeral order of services template designs to select from, all of which can be downloaded for free and then personalised with your own wording such as ceremony details, a thoughtful verse or favourite poem and your selected images. Announcements Inform your friends and family of the details of your loved one's funeral with our fully personalised announcement cards. Printed on quality A6 350gsm silk card, single or both sides and supplied with white envelopes. Thank You Cards Select one of our thoughtfully designed funeral thank you cards to dispatch after the service. These cards are a thoughtful way to convey appreciation to those who attended and are becoming increasingly popular. These are A6 in size and printed single or double sided onto 350gsm silk card which is soft touch and with a slight sheen - quality white envelopes are included. We also offer free next day delivery on all orders placed before 1pm for your convenience. If you can't see the item you are looking for or need help placing your order, please call 01952 850 730. Branding & Design Small Business Advice Branding & Design Small Business Advice We've included all the basic artwork you need to present each page in a way that fits the colours and themes of the booklet, with stock photos of actors to show you where you can place your photos. All of our templates come with a front and back cover, with a selection of page layouts throughout to give you options for how and where to present your messages, memories, anecdotes, and images. Our Order of Service templates come as a complete and cohesive themed design, with all the layouts, colours, and background imagery you need. But we also know that a funeral service is a personal experience - so we've worked hard to make our templates as customisable as possible. All of the text fields and images (and most of the colours) can be easily changed and adjusted to fit the tastes and personalities of your family and your loved one - so you can quickly and easily take a professionally designed template and truly make it your own. Once you've downloaded a template that you're happy with, simply add in the photos and imagery you want to include, and write in the messages and text you want people to read. If you're having trouble deciding what goes where, we've put together an in-depth guide to help you write and arrange your Order of Service. Still haven't found the perfect design? If none of our templates were the right fit for you, our in-house team of graphic designers can create a custom and personalised design for you from scratch. We'll find out exactly what you're looking for - with the themes, colours, and personality of your family - and then carefully craft a bespoke Order of Service design for your individual service. Just send us a message at artwork@print-print.co.uk with your images, your messages, and your preferred colours - or fill out the form below - and we'll get our design team working on your own personalised Order of Service. Our brochure designs start from £10 per page + VAT. Get next-day delivery on your Order of Service printing. Once you're happy with your Order of Service design and its content (whether that's with one of our templates or our bespoke design service), you'll be ready to print - and get your personalised Order of Service into your hands. Our professional printing team can turn your design into an A5 booklet (210 x 148 mm) printed on high-quality 160gsm paper, with a choice of either 8 or 16 printed pages - or even more, if you need them. And if you order your prints before 1pm, we can guarantee next-day delivery on your Order of Service booklets. Branding & Design Small Business Advice Creating an order of service for a funeral is a lot more than just putting together an itinerary. It's a chance to work together with your friends and family. Choosing the photos, messages and sentiments that symbolise the life of someone close to all of you, and deciding together the best way to present that celebrated life to a larger circle of friends and acquaintances. And for those who won't be able to make it to the ceremony, a funeral order of service is the next best thing to actually being there. It's a concrete connection to the person being celebrated, and something they'll be able to keep for years as a reminder of how that person was honoured. While it might not seem like the most urgent part of your preparations, the finished booklet could end up being the longest-lasting - so you ought to make sure you create something you can all be proud of. First, we'll cover the content of each section of the order of service - which sections to include, and what needs to go in them. After that, we'll get into the design - how to create a smart, vibrant souvenir that best sums up the life of a loved one. Simple yet modern cover designs Just like the front cover of a book, it's best to keep things simple. Most funeral booklets will have a front page that contains a photo of the remembered person. Their full legal name, their birth date and the date of their death. An optional short message, quotation or sentiment - or sometimes just the location and time of the service. The photo you choose should be one that's simple, and focused on the person being honoured. You might have some group photos that capture a happy memory or certain emotion, but a solo photo ensures that there's no confusion for those attending. Do You Need Funeral Order of Service Printing? Order today before 1pm, Get Next Day Delivery And if you have plenty of options, spend some time with your friends and family to choose a photo that best represents the character of the celebrated person. If they were known for their dedication and selflessness, that might mean choosing a photo from their military service. Or if they were always easygoing and playful, you could choose a photo that shows them relaxing on a beach, or laughing at a party. While the ceremony itself is almost always a serious affair, don't feel that the photo on the cover page has to be. When your friends and family pick up the booklet years later, it's no bad thing if they see a memory that makes them smile. Elegant and traditional doesn't have to be boring. Outlining the service The next pages are usually where you'll find the schedule of the ceremony itself - a simple list that tells those attending what will happen and what to expect. There's no strict format or order to follow, but the service might include: A musical procession as the mourners enter and assemble. An introduction from your community leader or a particular speaker. Music, songs, hymns or poems. The specific hymns or scripture verses are usually listed for reference, and highlighted in bold. Readers and speakers recalling memories of the honoured person - these speakers are usually named in the order of service. Group prayers, hymns or music. Committal and blessing. Closing music. The music at both the beginning and the end can be named in the booklet for attendees who aren't familiar with the selection. Of course, you'll need to check the outline of the service with the director of the ceremony or your community leader before you go to print. Depending on the venue or the place of worship, they'll often have a particular way of running things - and you ought to make sure they can fit in your plans before you promise anything in your booklet. Adding some detail After you've outlined the service, you can use the next few pages for some extra insights into the life of the person being celebrated. That could mean creating a collage of different snapshots from their life, or writing down a few of their favourite quotations, proverbs or scripture verses. You could also use a few original thoughts or sentiments written by your friends and family - anything that you want people to remember when they think about the person who was close to you. And, just like the front cover photo, it doesn't hurt if you give your readers a thought or memory that makes them smile. Some families have even displayed a timeline of the person's life, picking out a few of the most important events and marking the dates with photos where they have them - graduation ceremonies, their wedding day, and a few milestone birthdays, for example. An order of service can be as individual as the person who has passed. Coming to a close The final page of the funeral booklet, just like the front cover, is usually kept simple. First, it's customary to include a closing photo of the person being remembered - perhaps this time in a group photo with their family or friends, or in a photo that shows a different side of their character to the ones you've used earlier. Second, it's a good place to mention any preferred charities for donations. That could be the cause that was most important to the person being honoured, or maybe a charity that helped and cared for them during their later years. As you approach the end of the booklet, it's a good time to express your thanks to those who attended the service, and to extend your warm wishes to your more distant friends and relatives who received a copy of the booklet but couldn't attend the ceremony itself. You can also include your thanks to the company that provided the funeral services. It might seem like a strange addition, but plenty of people do appreciate this detail - especially if you've used a local company that's known within your community and you feel have supplied an extra special service. And finally, you can finish off the booklet with the details and location of the burial and the wake or reception that's to follow the service - so as the mourners come to the end of the ceremony and the booklet, they know where to go and what to do next. Designing a funeral order of service booklet With the content set in place, it's time to start thinking about the overall design and layout of the finished order of service. Choose a size and construction that fits the content Depending on how many pages and how much information you need to include, you could use anything from a folded sheet of A4, up to a fully bound multi-page booklet. Traditionally, lots of funeral leaflets have been double-sided A4 pages folded in half. But these days, we see more families choosing A5 booklets with as many as 8, 12 or in some cases as much as 20 pages. With this extra space, you'll be able to include all of your favourite photos to represent every aspect of the personality and life of the person being remembered. And as a lasting keepsake for the mourners and relatives who can't attend, a longer booklet gives them more photos, sentiments and memories to look back on. Choose a style early on and stick to it Depending on your family's own traditions - and also on the character of the remembered person - you'll need to choose an artistic style for your booklet. Some prefer to stick to the classic style of white flowers and soft-edged images. Others prefer a more modern, minimalist design - or even a bright and colourful approach that embraces a dynamic life. Personal Funeral Order of Service Booklets Order today before 1pm, Get Next Day Delivery However you go about it, it's best to choose one style and be consistent throughout. And if you're struggling with the visual side of things, we're happy to help out with a few designs of our own. Choose a paper-weight that gives you the right balance While lightweight paper helps to keep the costs down, a booklet with heavier paper will last much longer, and will feel like a higher quality product when held in the hand. Our funeral booklets, for example, are printed on 160gsm, which is a medium-weight paper, with an optional 250gsm cover for booklets that are intended to last. Avoid using very scripted fonts Choose a font that's easy to read It can be tempting to go with highly ornamented fonts for an important occasion. But in reality, many of the people attending will be of an older age, and fancy calligraphy just makes things harder to read. Instead, try to stick to a font that's clear and dignified, and a font size that makes your messages accessible for everyone. Don't be afraid to add colour In the past, many funeral booklets have stuck to the traditional black and white colour scheme. But it's a tradition that's got more to do with the historical limits of photography - and the need to keep costs down - than it has to do with sombre emotions. In reality, the difference in cost between a black and white booklet and a colour one is small - and the difference in sentiment and impact when celebrating a life in colour is massive. Don't be afraid to add vibrant colours Typically, families used to stick to the standard folded A4 sheet in black and white for their orders of service. It's what would have come packaged in with the service from their funeral company. And while that might have been convenient, it didn't always do justice to the person being remembered. Today, everyone has high-quality colour photos of their favourite memories, and of their favourite people. Families are choosing these colourful and vivid photos for their multi-page booklets to better capture the tenacity and energy of the people being remembered, with full-colour portraits and collages that won't mute the vibrancy of a celebrated life. Just remember that colours need to be chosen carefully. Too many conflicting colours in your artwork can make your booklet seem garish or busy - so a measured approach is usually best. To sum up... It's not easy to stay organised and make progress during difficult times. But with an understanding of what's expected from a funeral order of service, you'll be able to put together a physical reminder of a celebrated life that your friends and family can treasure for years. Just remember to: Keep the overall design simple and uncluttered Use easy-to-read fonts at a good size Choose colour photos that best capture the character of the remembered person Give enough information for both types of reader - those who are attending, and those who can't make it. When you're ready to get your booklets printed checkout our Funeral Order of Service Printing or if you need a little extra help getting the design right, just give us a call on: 01952 850730 Images Courtesy of: www.pixabay.com and www.freepik.com. Dean Williams is a design and marketing blogger working for Print-Print Limited, promoting business and building brands through quality print marketing. If you're interested in small business promotion then please get in touch hello@print-print.co.uk Branding & Design Small Business Advice You can scroll our pre-designed templates below. We have provided an image preview of each to make it easier to find one appropriate for your ceremony. Once downloaded and personalised, the document is ready to be printed. Modern-Full-Image Download: Bright Flowers Download: Simple Download: Traditional Download: Calm Download: Light Textures Download: Religious Download: Cute Animals Download: Order today before 1pm, Get Next Day Delivery Watercolour Download: Minimalistic Download: Celebrating the life Download: Golden Download: Tree of Life Download: Simple Flowers Download: Simple Leaves Download: Gold Edge Download: Blue Leaves Download: Heavenly Download: Pink Floral Download: Red Floral Download: Butterflies Download: If none of our templates resonate with you, our in-house team can carefully craft a bespoke design to suit your needs. Brochure design starts from £8 +VAT per page. Simply give us your brief including your preferred colours, images, and the text to include in your brochure by filling in this form or emailing us at artwork@print-print.co.uk. Our design team will review your request and be back in touch shortly. Once you are satisfied you have the perfect service outline to commemorate your loved one, our professional printing team can print your funeral order of service booklet with guaranteed next day delivery for all orders placed before 1pm. All our booklets are printed as an A5 document (148cm by 21cm) on high-quality 160gsm paper, with a choice of 8 to 16 printed pages. We can print many more pages if you need them.