Include your email if you want an answer. The tax-rate calculator. org is now fully updated! Federal calculations will now use official federal tax rebates and deductions and state calculations will use the most recent parentheses available. There have been several important tax changes since fiscal year 2013, including several that are the result of new taxes related to Obamacare. We support the following new laws Net investment income tax: a new 3.8% Surtax on Capital Gains on a certain income threshold ($250,000 per mfj) Additional Medicare tax - A new 0.9% Surtax on Medicare salary income on a certain income threshold ($250,000 per mfj) 20% Maximum Capital Gains Taxes - A new tax rate capital gains for income on capital gains beyond the maximum tax bracket ($ 450,000 450,000) MFJ) We have also added full support for calculating wage taxes (social and health insurance taxes) and self-employment taxes. Payroll fees are calculated based on stated income and self-employment fees are calculated based on declared income. The Payroll tax, also known as the FICA tax, refers to the two compulsory taxes paid by all employees who contribute to social welfare and medical care programs. Payroll taxes are always deducted directly from each payroll, so you rarely have to pay an additional income tax. As a result, many taxpayers are not aware of the real amount they pay in pay taxes. The self-employment tax The wage tax consists of two halves: half is paid by the employee and half is paid by the employer. Selfemployed workers must pay both employees and employers half of the wage tax, commonly known as self-employment tax. Since most self-employed workers do not receive wage allowances, they are often required to pay the self-employment tax on the fifteenth of April along with their regular income tax. Select the appropriate box if you want us to make an estimate of taxes on your payroll or self-employment. We will calculate wage taxes based on your wage income and self-employment taxes based on your corporate income. The Standard Deduction is a floor deduction amount fixed by Congress to simplify deductions for taxpayers who have not enough deductions to specify. The standard deduction varies depending on the state of deposit, age and vision and is adapted every year for inflation. You do not need to keep the logs of your deductions if you require standard deduction. Custom Deduction You can chooseYour deductions If your qualifying deductions increase up to more than your standard deduction. It is only possible to specify the deductions specifically allowed by the tax authorities, such as charitable deductions, some medical expenses, mortgage interests and state / local taxes. Most deductions deductions limitations and phasing-out associated with them, and records and receipts shall be kept for all deductions listed. You want me to explain? In general, high-level taxpayers, house-owning taxpayers and high-cost taxpayers are more likely to benefit from detailed deductions. About a third of all taxpayers demand a detailed deduction, with the most common deductions including mortgage interest and state and local taxes. Two training credits are available, even if it is possible to apply for a single annual credit for each qualified student (including yourself). American Opportunity Credit is the preferred option for students enrolled in four-year colleges. To calculate credits, just include the amount of qualifying training costs you want to apply for in the fields for American Opportunity and/or Lifetime Learning tax credits. American Opportunity Tax Credit American Opportunity Tax Credit is valid up to $2,500. You can apply for the American Opportunity credit for you or an employee student with the qualifying educational costs incurred pursuing a degree in a qualifying university school. You can apply for the American Opportunity credit only for a total of four years for each qualified student. Lifetime Learning Tax Credit Lifetime Learning Tax Credit can be valid up to $2,000, and can be claimed for all educational costs qualifying without limit on the number of years can be claimed. Lifetime Learning credit qualification costs include graduation, continuation and adult training courses. You do not have to pursue a degree to use your educational expenses for this accreditation.
